Your comments

This website provides visitors the opportunity to leave comments. We are very grateful for this information and appreciate the time taken to provide it. All comments submitted through this website will be processed and stored in accordance with the policies set out on this page.

All comments published on the website are done so anonymously. However, comments are also subject to moderation before they are published. Healthwatch Bucks reserves the right not to publish any comment. However, we value all of your comments and they are collated and processed as feedback, whether they are published or not.

Comments may be withheld if they contain:

1. abusive, derogatory, or offensive language
2. criticism referencing a named individual or practitioner
3. statements that could be potentially libellous such as an accusation of malpractice (e.g. misdiagnosis)
4. information which may make the commentator identifiable. For example, sharing detailed case information.
5. references to or criticism of other commentators
6. details of an obviously contentious situation or on-going complaint
7. information relating to a 3rd party where there is no explicit relationship to the commentator

If we decide not to publish a comment, we will try to contact the commentator to explain why.

Comments posted by the public on this website do not necessarily represent the views of Healthwatch Bucks, its board of Directors or associated volunteers and partners.
